Dear Friends,

With China under lockdown, global trade is expected to witness a major impact on imports and exports in various industries including textiles. Experts feel that the impact could have a ripple effect on all major economies across the world, particularly the manufacturing sector since most of them depend on China – the largest manufacturing hub in the world. Although the coronavirus (2019-nCOV or COVID-19) outbreak could have a significant impact on Indian textiles sector in terms of supply chain disruptions and price volatility, on the other side it has offered India with an opening to revive the ‘Make in India’ programme. Keeping in view the rapid developments in global trade on account of coronavirus, Ministry of Textiles along with EPCH organized a symposium on ‘Emerging Opportunities for Indian Textiles and Crafts’ at The Imperial Hotel, New Delhi, on 19th February 2020. At the forum, I made a presentation on the trade opportunities available for the Indian cotton textiles sector pointing out to some of the immediate advantages in view of disruptions in the supply chain due to problems in shipment from China. The Council, while analyzing HS line-wise data provided by the Ministry of Commerce, has identified that India is ready to increase export in some of the products, such as Bed sheet sets, Comforters, Utility Bedding, Shopping Bags, Coloured Denim, Value-added Knitted fabrics. The presentation also highlighted India’s capabilities and made a realistic assessment of the readiness of our exporters to tap emerging opportunities in the present scenario. It was pointed that 26% of India’s export of Cotton yarn (valued at approx. US$ 800 mn) is destined to China and there are bright chances of a sharp reduction in business with China. In seeking alternate markets, therefore, the Indian exporters of cotton yarn need policy support in view of the preferential tariff arrangements enjoyed by few of our competing countries.

In sum, the presentation highlighted the need to focus on specific products with potential for exponential growth supported by the much-required policy thrust.

Textile Delegation visits Bangladesh

A high-level delegation under the leadership of Shri Ravi Capoor, Secretary, Ministry of Textiles, Government of India visited Dhaka to explore how India’s export can be increased as far as Bangladesh is concerned. TEXPROCIL officials along with representatives of other apex textile bodies like PDEXCIL & Tirupur Exporters Association participated as members of this delegation.
During a meeting with Bangladesh garment manufacturers, the Indian delegation highlighted the developments in the Indian textiles sector and requested them to source fabrics from India along with trying to link up with the exports of garments to India. It was pointed out that India can also offer good-graded cotton to Bangladesh textile industry. Further to that, India has also removed the anti-dumping duty on PTA (key raw material for polyester fibre) thereby making it possible to supply MMF fibres and fabrics from India at very competitive prices. The meeting also highlighted the good opportunities for import of cotton bags as plastics are being phased out. The Indian delegation also suggested that some of the garment brands selling ethnic wear in India should also be permitted to set up retail network/showrooms in Bangladesh.

The Bangladesh side requested India to make investments in weaving and processing sectors. They also raised issues relating to sustainable textiles, tracing of raw materials and abrupt cancellation of letters of credit and quality issues. Both sides agreed to enhance their level of cooperation and participate in various exhibitions/meets. Towards this end, the Indian delegation invited Bangladesh garment manufacturers to participate as a ‘partner country’ in the ‘Textiles India 2020’ exhibition being organised in New Delhi from 29-31 July 2020.

Stakeholder Meeting with Textiles Secretary

Confederation of Indian Textile Industry (CITI), organized an interactive meeting with Shri Ravi Capoor, Secretary, Ministry of Textiles, Government of India with the office-bearers of 48 textile Associations in South India representing the entire textile value chain, on 12th February 2020, in Hotel Le-Meridien, Coimbatore, Tamil Nadu.

The office-bearers / representatives of other National apex bodies such as AEPC, TEXPROCIL, PDEXCIL, SRTEPC, AMFII, SAMARTH also participated in the above interactive meeting.

At the meeting, all the associations thanked the Hon’ble Prime Minister, Union Minister for Textiles and Secretary (Textiles) for the bold step taken by the Government in the recent Union Budget announcement and abolishing the anti-dumping duty on PTA (Purely Terephthalic Acid), a key raw material for polyester textiles. This initiative has enabled the indigenous fibre and filament manufacturers to reduce the price considerably, creating a level playing field for the MMF Sector.

In our submission to Shri Capoor, we emphasized the need to recognize the key role played by yarn & fabric industry, treating cotton yarn & fabrics at par with all other products for the refund of duties and taxes presently available to the downstream industry. We also reiterated our request that RODTEP Scheme should be extended to all the products across the value chain from Yarn to Finished Apparel. We also pointed out towards other related issues like the pending claims under erstwhile ROSL Scheme which stands discontinued from 7th March 2019, and abrupt withdrawal of MEIS benefit with retrospective effect, amongst others which has shaken the confidence of our textile exporters.

On his part, the Secretary (Textiles) also indicated that the Government would address all the structural issues in its new National Textile Policy that might be announced in a couple of months by making the basic raw materials available at international price, encourage scale of operation by developing 10 mega textile parks with over 1000 acres of land closer to the ports, giving plug and play facilities including the necessary safeguard measures in the labour laws. The Secretary (Textiles) also indicated that the power cost, credit cost and its availability will be addressed suitably. He further stated that the government would also make efforts to expedite the conclusion of FTAs with the EU, UK and Bangladesh along with other countries to boost exports.

Ind-Texpo 2020 – All set for 2nd edition

Friends, as you are all aware, TEXPROCIL is organising the second edition of Ind-Texpo 2020 – a specialised Reverse Buyer Seller Meet at CODISSIA Trade Fair Complex, Coimbatore, Tamil Nadu from 17-19 March 2020. This one-stop sourcing platform for a variety of textiles across the value chain is supported by the Ministry of Commerce & Industry and Ministry of Textiles, Government of India.

For the 2nd edition, 100+ quality importers will visit the show from over 25+ countries and regions in their pursuit for de-risking their businesses and developing alternative sources of supplies on account of the lockdown in China due to outbreak of 2019 – nCoV. Ind-Texpo 2020 holds the promise to take the industry forward by bringing in new opportunities for Trade. As a part of its business matchmaking program, Ind-Texpo 2020 will also feature exclusive B2B Meetings for the exhibiting companies to spend quality time with overseas buyers based on a predetermined schedule of time slots during the exhibition.

Buyers from countries including Colombia, Chile, Peru, Paraguay, Ecuador, Bangladesh, Sri Lanka, Vietnam, UAE, Middle East, Ethiopia, Kenya, etc. have already confirmed their registration to visit the show.
The international health emergency - the outbreak of COVID-19 threatens to derail global economic growth that was already under pressure from a global trade war and Brexit. Confidence in the benefits of trade and integration has suffered as trade wars highlight the risks of interdependence, and tech advances weaken the economic rationale for far-flung supply chains.

The most important long-term consequence of the coronavirus, however, might be its impact on the already faltering confidence in trade. The contagion and its disruptions might finally push the world to consider a new trading order.

Supply chain disruptions

China accounts for almost one-fifth of world manufacturing and Chinese intermediary products are predominant in the many sectors including textiles. Subtracting Chinese inputs from these supply chains will, in some instances, cause production to grind to a halt. The breakdown in China has thus caused supply chain disruptions.

The still-evolving coronavirus outbreak has already disrupted trade and economic performance both regionally and globally. Perhaps the most insidious impact of the virus stems from China’s pre-eminent position as a producer of intermediary products that feed into global supply chains.

In other instances, alternative or workaround solutions will be found but they will be, by definition, suboptimal and more expensive. This will embed higher costs throughout the supply chains and could ultimately result in higher inflation.

CHAIRMAN’S MESSAGE contd...

There have also been increased enquiries from importers in the EU and other countries to source Indian yarn, fabrics and home textiles.

With just a few stalls available, the Council has requested the Indian companies to come and explore the business opportunities made available at this unique one-stop sourcing platform. I appeal to all our members to get in touch with TEXPROCIL and make the best of this opportunity to grow your business by participating in large numbers at Ind-Texpo 2020.

Way forward

Friends, as you are all aware, while there has been a steady growth in the domestic market, exports have stagnated during the last four years. China has not only cut down its production of textile products but has also started outsourcing thus creating a huge space in the international market.

Even the new opportunities on account of lockdown in China are being fully exploited by countries like Bangladesh, Turkey, Vietnam, etc. India, however, is yet to find a mention in the list of alternate sourcing destinations as a backup plan if Chinese production delays continue.

In these trying times, we need to keep a window open to robustly link up with regional and global value chains for all-round development of the textile industry in an integrated manner.

At the same time with suitable policy interventions, we need to undertake all-out efforts to gain the confidence of global/regional investors so that they feel encouraged to make investments in the value-added garment and home textile segments. This two-pronged strategy is the only way forward for a country like India blessed with presence in the entire value chain.

Will Coronavirus crater hopes of a Global Recovery as World Trade Tumbles?

The still-evolving coronavirus outbreak has already disrupted trade and economic performance both regionally and globally. Perhaps the most insidious impact of the virus stems from China’s pre-eminent position as a producer of intermediary products that feed into global supply chains.
World Trade - towards a tipping point

Earlier it was seen that businesses and government had tremendous confidence in trade, in its ability to deliver mutual benefits, and in the ability of the multilateral trade system to reduce trade barriers, resolve conflict and inculcate a sense of stability and trade fairness.

This confidence allowed trade to grow at roughly twice the rate of global GDP growth for most of the post-war era and led to steadily deeper economic integration.

In recent years, however, this confidence in the benefits of trade and integration has suffered several body blows. As a result, we seem to be inching towards a tipping point in which the conventional wisdom begins to reverse and the risks of deepening integration and trade are judged to possibly outweigh the benefits.

Tech advances - weaken the economic rationale

Meanwhile, technological advances ranging from automation to artificial intelligence and 3D printing are weakening the economic rationale for maintaining far-flung supply chains. As automation increases, the importance of wage differentials decreases.

As the capabilities of additive manufacturing advance, so does the ability of companies to keep operations onshore. As tariff walls grow, the cost associated with moving products across borders also grow. In these cases, the benefits of trade are waning, while the downsides mount.

India – benefiting from the prospects

While on the one side the ill-fated development exposes India to supply chain disruptions and price volatility, on the other side it has offered India with an opening to revive the 'Make in India' programme.

Keeping in view the rapid developments in global trade on account of coronavirus, Ministry of Textiles along with EPCH organized a symposium on ‘Emerging Opportunities for Indian Textiles and Crafts’ at The Imperial Hotel, New Delhi, on 19th February 2020. At this forum, TEXPROCIL analysed the trade opportunities for the cotton textiles sector and made a presentation to all those present.

TEXPROCIL - analysis of trade

China is the single largest market for export of cotton yarn from India with a share of 22.38%. However, India’s market share in China is gradually declining over the past few years owing to tariff advantage enjoyed by other competing countries, such as Vietnam & Pakistan.

Amongst the Top 20 HS lines of cotton textiles exported by China and India to the world, only in two products, export from India are more than that of China, viz. HS 63026090 (Other toilet linen & kitchen linen of terry fabrics of cotton) and HS 63053200 (Flexible intermediate bulk containers of man-made textile materials).

Similarly, amongst the Top 10 cotton textile products, India’s share in supply of made-ups to USA under HS code 630260 (Toilets and Kitchen linen of Cotton Terry Fabrics) is more than that of China.

Of the Top 10 cotton textile products, India’s share in the supply of made-ups to EU 28 are more than China in HS codes 630260 (Toilet & Kitchen Linen Of Cotton Terry Fabrics) & 630492 (Other Furnish Art Nt 9404 Nesoi Nt Kt/Crochet Cotton).

Readiness of Indian Exporters to tap opportunities

China is bound to bounce back to normal production and export as it is only a question of time. It may take at the most six months for normalcy to return. Whatever opportunities created due to the supply chain disruption in China needs to be looked at as a short term opportunity and India can fill part of the demand by fully utilizing the present manufacturing capacity. In the long term, to take on China in the international market, a slew of measures need to be undertaken by the industry with clear guidelines and support from the government.

If we take just two major trade blocks, USA + EU 28, export from China is US$ 90 billion against India’s export of US$ 18 billion, China’s export is 5 times larger. In the present scenario of stagnation of Indian export to the world at approx. US$ 39 billion for the past five years, with very little addition in installed capacity in value added T&C products, it is high time to look at Textile and Clothing sector as a one single value chain to provide support across the board instead of a fragmented policy support.

While looking at the immediate advantage in view of the breakdown in the supply chain due to problems in shipment from China, and analyzing the HS line wise data provided by the Ministry of Commerce, the industry is ready to increase export in some of the products, including Bed sheet sets, (HS Code 6302); Quilts; Comforters; Utility Bedding (all under HS Code 9404) Shopping Bags (HS Code 420222); Coloured Denims (HS Code 521142); and Value added Knitted fabrics (HS chapter 60).

There is also an urgent need for policy thrust in the export of these specific product lines, such as Shopping bags,

Emerging Opportunities in World Trade
- A TEXPROCIL Analysis

To take advantage of the present conditions, India needs to focus on increasing export with the existing installed capacity by targeting a few products in which India has inherent strengths & by enhancing competitive advantages. The need of the day is to focus on specific products with potential for exponential growth and provide policy support by creating a credible policy ecosystem reimbursing all levies, taxes, refunds across the value chain in a time bound manner.
